My life has sure had its share of pain.
And on my life sin has left its stain.
Lord I thought a life in You would be a breeze.
And for once my life could be at ease.
When out in sin life was like a mighty storm.
Wearing away at me until I was battered and torn.
It has been a struggle just to survive. But I now know why I am still alive.
Sin was keeping me on a well trodden path.
I was beginning to feel the results of its wrath. And by my own doing it almost destroyed me.
You came just in time or that is the way it would be.
With so much hurting it would have to show. I got through this by a source I did not know.
I longed for something better but did not know what.
About God I had not heard a lot.
Lord long ago I wish You I would have known.
Then so many seeds of sin I would not have sown.
The way I was going I know was the wrong way.
Now I am enjoying Your way better every day.
Is there anyone Lord I can talk to about You?
I am new at this and don't always know what to do.
But more about You I want to learn, And the things of God I want to discern.
Just look to Me in the good times and bad.
I will give you a life like you have never had.
I will always have someone along the way you will meet.
And the things that would destroy you, you will defeat.
