Has life dealt you a bitter blow?
God, where are you? I just don't seem to know.
Don't You see my struggles, don't You see my pain?
I need a downpour of spiritual rain.
If only I knew these troubles would go away.
Is this pain going to stay?
I believe I could stand the struggles and this pain, If You would answer when I call upon Your name.
Lord, almost daily I pray and get into Your Word, Then why has it been so long since I have heard?
In all this misery must I remain?
Lord, You know from evil I continued to refrain.
My problems just seem to never go away.
They just keep lasting day after day. So Lord, when will I hear from You?
You always know just what to do.
Lord, it seems at least in the past, That my pain did not always last. But now it seems it is here to stay,
Won't You come now, and take this pain away?
While on earth I went through much pain,
I was brought through, for you God will do the same.
I know exactly what you are going through, I am still your friend, I will be there for you.
I hear each time you pray.
I have not gone anywhere, I have not gone away.
Your day is coming, you will see,
And the sun will rise again, with you I will always be.